

MAKEOVERS!

It looks like Meg Ryan deflated her trout pout, but Lisa Rinna may still be trying to puff hers up. Ouch!

Lisa's Lips
Puffed Up?

LISA RINNA

TALK about bee-stung lips! Lisa Rinna's kisser looks swollen to the max. "In this case, the shape of her upper lip looks completely unnatural," says Beverly Hills plastic surgeon Dr. Lloyd M. Krieger. Adds Dr. Scot Bradley Glasberg: "Because there is no enlargement near the corners of the mouth, this speaks for injections rather than an implant or some surgical procedure where incisions would have to be made at the sides of the mouth." As for what exactly she might have injected, Dr. Glasberg guesstimates that it could have been Restylane, which lasts longer than collagen. He notes that if the photo was taken within three days of treatment, some of the oversized shape may be due to swelling that will go down. Otherwise he says: "I think this is just way overdone. I prefer subtle lip enhancement."

— LISA CHASE ★

Then

RINNA IN 2003

Rinna's always had a penchant for a pillowy pout, but while large, her lips didn't look out of proportion — just voluptuous — until now.